My dear fellow Altrusans:

As we complete the 2017-2019 biennium, please allow me the opportunity to express how honored I am to have served as your Foundation Chair. Your community leadership is truly inspirational. Thank you for the opportunity to assist your admirable, great local work. It is the mission of our Board of Trustees to continue improving the foundation programs to best serve you and our worldwide communities.

The Board of Trustees continue learning new ways to improve our giving programs, investments for future Altrusans, and creative outlets to educate local communities about the worldwide service work of Altrusa Clubs. This past year, we saw an unprecedented response to the Reaching Out to Light the Way in 2019 campaign for the Disaster Relief Fund. Because of your generosity, we fulfilled our commitment to distribute hundreds of solar-powered lights to the Ghana Health & Education Initiative, Medicine for Mali, and Altrusa International of District Fourteen. The lights serve countless purposes, from students studying at night to healthcare volunteers working in remote locations - thank you for making it happen!

The purpose of the Annual Report is to give you, our supporters, a review of the foundation activities over the year You will find graphic summaries, 2018-2019 Altrusa District contributions, acknowledgments of key individuals and clubs, and Altrusa Club service work stories.

We hope you feel great pride in your membership with Altrusa and find the report reflective of our shared goals. The Board of Trustees join me in sending our sincere thanks and appreciation for your continued support and guidance. Additionally, we thank the International Association President and Board for their ideas and creativity as we develop and grow our organizations side-by-side.

In the Spirit of Altrusa,

Sandi Miller

Local volunteers make sustainable feminine products for girls around the world

by Kristina Blum Justice

In America, girls and women are able to live their lives with relatively minimal inconvenience from their menstrual cycle. The story is much different in war-torn and impoverished countries around the world, and a group of women from several organizations are working together to change that.

“We really love the project, and wanted to engage in it somehow. We have a few really good sewists in our group, and a lot of other quilters in town have been our very strong partners. It’s been an amazing response.”

Days for Girls is an international movement with the purpose of providing sustainable feminine products and education about women’s health to girls and women around the world, according to the project’s website.

The project was started by Celeste Megens in Kenya after a violent election drastically increased the number of orphans in an orphanage where she was working. Megens lay awake one night, wondering:

From left, Judy Speed, Marilyn Oltmans, Linda Dillon and Trish Schlichting are some of the Days for Girls team members who sew reusable feminine products that will be brought to an impoverished region of southern Mexico.

ALTRUSA GRANT SUPPORTS WOMEN IN YWCA’S TRANSITIONAL HOUSING PROGRAM

A $1,500 grant from the Altrusa International Foundation will provide “Welcome Home Baskets” to victims of domestic violence who have left their homes and found support and new homes through the YWCA Knoxville and the Tennessee Valley scattered-site transitional housing program in Anderson County. The International Foundation recently awarded the grant to Altrusa International of Oak Ridge. The grant will purchase household necessities, such as toiletries and cleaning items, for the baskets. Also included will be age-appropriate books for each of the children in the home.

The Altrusa Club will provide volunteers and work in partnership with the YWCA to provide baskets for women and children entering the program. “Often, victims of domestic violence do not have access to emergency items when fleeing their abusers and their homes,” said Maggie McNally, YWCA Director of Women’s Services in Anderson County. “The baskets offer a nice gift that shows support for these families and will give them a head start in their new homes.”

The YWCA supports victims of domestic violence in court, in finding housing, and in teaching life skills as they seek safety, stability and independence. The YWCA started its scattered-site transitional housing program in Anderson County in October 2017, providing from six months to two years of housing assistance for victims and their families.

Altrusa volunteers have worked with the YWCA on other projects, and they recommended that the local Club apply for the Altrusa International Foundation grant as a way to show support for women and children who have fled domestic violence and their homes in Anderson County. “The baskets offer a nice gift that shows support for these families and will give them a head start in their new homes.”

The YWCA supports victims of domestic violence in court, in finding housing, and in teaching life skills as they seek safety, stability and independence. “Service consists not in saying great things, but in the daily earnest practice of its principles.”

 Volunteer Spotlight:

Altrusa Ladies

Welcome to Pettigrew Emergency

What do the ladies of Altrusa of Omaha mean to Stephen Center? The partnership with these ladies means hope, fun, education and a relationship of great respect. The opportunities this partnership brings to our clients is one that we are very grateful for. The group hosts a bingo night for the clients which allows them to win prizes that in their situations mean a great deal to them. There are practical gifts such as clothing, grocery gift cards, baby supplies, etc. There are also gifts of leisure which most clients have not had for some time. Nice smelling lotions, restaurant gift cards, books and many other options. This event is something clients look forward to as a time of fellowship and fun, as well as the prizes. Recently, the grand prize for Bingo for Friends, or BFF as it is called, was an autographed poster from Coach Scott Frost which was won by a resident in Permanent Supportive Housing and was a welcome addition "shop" for anything they can use. This event brings much joy to clients who otherwise would not have means to provide clothes for themselves or their families.

The group has begun to set up a book table in the shelter to support literacy, books are provided to clients free of charge as well. All that the ladies of Altrusa do for the clients of Stephen Center is with the utmost dignity and respect and truly help us to make Stephen Center a place for people to belong.

Altrusa hosted a national convention in Omaha and invited Chief Development Officer, Tori Corcoran to be a part of the panel to create awareness of Stephen Center’s mission.

"Altrusa has done so much for our homeless clients over the years that we jumped at the opportunity to participate in the conference,” said Corcoran.
The Club 21 Program provides children a fun and safe place to be a kid while they battle disease and disability, and supports international projects, such as communities in Ghana and Mali with healthcare education and services.

"The volunteers at Camp Dreamcatcher listen to me and are always by my side. I can talk about my illness. This is like a second home where my family is. -camper"

When Altrusa International of Hamilton received a grant from the Altrusa International Foundation in Chicago, they decided to use a portion of the funds to purchase children’s books for the Hamilton City School District. After consulting with school liaisons and teachers, they selected A Bad Case of the Stripes for second-graders and Diary of a Wimpy Kid for third-graders for the first of three rounds of giving. Members of the club spent an afternoon recently placing the books in bags to be distributed through Shared Harvest Foodbank’s Backpack program. “Altrusa International’s focus is to eliminate literacy world wide, and we are helping to do this in our local area,” said the club in a statement. “We would like to thank Shared Harvest Foodbank for their program to help us to continue our mission to eradicate illiteracy: Feed the body, feed the mind.”
The Disaster Relief Fund mission is to respond immediately to disasters with swift, direct aid to anywhere in the world. The support provides comfort and hope to many needing food, shelter, and health services.
